Dear Drs. J.E. Fer, Ullgren and Darelius,

while authors often upload a revised manuscript at the same time as uploading their response to the points raised in review, there is also the option of posting a response to a referee now, before proceeding with revision. If this seems a useful step to you, to take full advantage of the "discussion" capability of the journal's review procedure, then I encourage you to do so.

If additional time is needed, at any point, please just let us know.

yours sincerely, –Matthew Hecht
