

Interactive comment on “Observing using sound and light – a short review of underwater acoustic and video-based methods” by P. Jonsson et al.

Anonymous Referee #3

Received and published: 30 June 2009

I also looked over this manuscript and have read the comments of the other two reviewers. This was a hard one because, as review 2 states, the topic area is so broad, the authors, almost by definition, cannot fulfill their task. Given this enormity, and the length of the article, it is almost guaranteed that the review is "spotty". Fifty years of acoustics and light could easily take a whole book. Given the impossibility of their goal, and the requisite gaps, I cannot recommend this article for publication. A more targeted review article would have been a much better idea.

Interactive comment on Ocean Sci. Discuss., 6, 819, 2009.